

The PhoneShield :- The Principle

The fundamental purpose of the PhoneShield is to ensure that the natural balance of the human energy fields is maintained and not disharmonised by electromagnetic pollutants.

The PhoneShield consists of a blend of six specially processed crystals. These include quartz crystal and comprise a unique proprietary crystalline matrix.

Modern science has made extensive use of the fact that different crystals resonate at different frequencies. The first shortwave radios and electrical watches employed quartz crystals because quartz stabilizes only certain fixed frequencies of vibration.

Through the resonance of the crystals employed in The PhoneShield, the electromagnetic frequencies emitted by mobile phones are prevented from interfering with the natural bioelectrical frequencies operating in the human brain and neurological system. Without this protection the phone user may be susceptible to electromagnetic hypersensitivity syndrome expressing itself through loss of mental attention, loss of memory retention, fatigue, headaches, and malaise.

PhoneShield Protectors are passive devices made from natural products, requiring no external sources of energy. The natural resonance of the crystals is never ending, creating an ongoing balance to the electromagnetic pollution given off by mobile phones.